FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE: October 31, 2019

MEDIA CONTACT: Camille de la Vega | cdelavega@publiccounsel.org | 650-787-3675

VETERANS SETTLE SUIT AGAINST NETWORK OF COMPANIES THAT DUPED HUNDREDS OUT OF THEIR MILITARY BENEFITS

Eight veterans from across the country banded together to end a scheme to “sell” military benefits to investors

LOS ANGELES, CA — October 4, 2019 — Eight military veterans from across the country put a stop to a nation-wide scheme that bilked hundreds of veterans out of millions of dollars in military benefits. The veterans filed two lawsuits alleging that a network of companies, including Performance Arbitrage Co., Life Funding Options, and Upstate Law Group, targeted veterans seeking financial assistance and convinced them to sign over their retirement and disability benefits in exchange for upfront cash. The lawsuits alleged that these transactions were riddled with hidden interest rates, administrative fees, and worth far less than the value of the veterans’ benefits. These transactions were not only unjust, putting veterans’ health, homes and families at risk, but they violated multiple federal laws.

The veterans, represented by William F. Dolan of Jones Day, Stephanie Lewis of Jackson Lewis P.C., and Public Counsel, secured a series of agreed injunctions that will put BAIC, Performance Arbitrage Co. and Life Funding Options, and their affiliates Candy Kern-Fuller, Katharine Snyder, Michelle Plant, and Mark Corbett, out of the business of buying or brokering the sale of military benefits or pensions for good.

“Many of our veterans return home from their service only to be confronted by new battles, including unemployment and health problems,” said Nisha Kashyap, Staff Attorney at Public Counsel. “It’s unconscionable that bad actors would look to capitalize upon these challenges. The last thing any veteran should have to worry about is getting cheated out of their benefits.”

Under the injunctions, the defendants must immediately stop brokering, offering, arranging, enforcing or collecting on any veteran contracts, essentially ending all activities for all future and many existing contracts. These injunctions thus extend beyond the eight veterans who brought the lawsuits and affect in various ways the rights of many other veterans who contracted with the defendants.

“I’m just relieved that no one else will suffer or be taken advantage by this scheme,” said Billy Green, who served 23 years in the Navy and retired in 1999. “They took advantage of me at time when I was at my lowest. I was desperate to find a way to support my family and I couldn’t have known at the time that this deal was illegal or that it would come at such a high cost to me and my family and our wellbeing.”

“Veterans’ benefits are in place to give back to the men and women who put their lives on the line for our country, and those benefits were taken from the hundreds of veterans targeted by this scheme,” said Stephanie Lewis, attorney at Jackson Lewis P.C. “While we can’t make up for their sacrifice or loss, we can make sure this never happens to another veteran again.”

Public Counsel is the nation’s largest pro bono law firm. Founded in 1970, Public Counsel strives to achieve three main goals: protect the legal rights of disadvantaged children; represent immigrants who have been the victims of torture, persecution, domestic violence, trafficking, and other crimes; and foster economic justice by providing individuals and institutions in underserved communities with access to quality legal representation. Through a pro bono model that leverages the talents and dedication of thousands of attorney and law student volunteers, along with an in-house staff of more than 75 attorneys and social workers, Public Counsel annually assists more than 30,000 families, children, immigrants, veterans, and nonprofit organizations and addresses systemic poverty and civil rights issues through impact litigation and policy advocacy. For more information, visit www.publiccounsel.org

Jones Day is a global law firm with more than 2,500 lawyers in 43 offices across five continents. The Firm is distinguished by: a singular tradition of client service; the mutual commitment to, and the seamless collaboration of, a true partnership; formidable legal talent across multiple disciplines and jurisdictions; and shared professional values that focus on client needs.

Focused on labor and employment law since 1958, Jackson Lewis P.C.’s 900+ attorneys located in major cities nationwide consistently identify and respond to new ways workplace law intersects business. We help employers develop proactive strategies, strong policies and business-oriented solutions to cultivate high-functioning workforces that are engaged, stable and diverse, and share our clients' goals to emphasize inclusivity and respect for the contribution of every employee.